EDITOR'S BOTTOMLINE

Prime Minister Narendra Modi on Wednesday said India is using technology as a weapon in the war against poverty, and the country's youth have ensured tech and talent globalisation. In his video message to the Bengaluru Tech Summit, he also said India is no more a place known for red tape. "It is known for red carpet for investors. Whether it is FDI reforms, or liberalisation of drone rules, or steps in the semiconductor sector, or the production incentive schemes in various sectors, or the rise of ease of doing business", he told the 25th edition of Asia's largest technology event. India has many excellent factors coming together. "Your investment and our innovation can do wonders. Your trust and our tech talent can make things happen. I invite you all to work with us as we lead the world in solving its problems."

The power of India's youth is known across the world. They have ensured tech globalisation and talent globalisation. We are using our talent for global good. Even in India, their impact is being seen. India jumped to the 40th rank in the Global Innovation Index this year. "In 2015, we were ranked 81. The number of unicorn start-ups in India has doubled since 2021. We are now the 3rd largest start-up hub in the world. We have over 81,000 recognised start-ups. There are hundreds of international companies that have R&D centres in India. This is due to India's talent pool." The growth of the internet is faster in rural areas than in urban areas. A new demography is being connected to the information superhighway. For a long time, technology was seen as an exclusive domain and it was said to be only for the high and mighty. "But India has shown how to democratise technology," Modi said.

Man living with bullet in neck for 77 years

Shandong: A 95-year-old Chinese war veteran recently discovered he had been living for almost eight decades with a bullet lodged in his neck.

After suffering a fall from the balcony of his house in Shandong, China, Zhao, he didn't report any symptoms to his worried family. He didn't feel any pain, but after a while, the World War 2 veteran did start to feel a slight discomfort in his neck, so his son decided to take him to the hospital for a check-up. After hearing about his fall, doctors recommended an X-ray, to ensure that he hadn't suffered serious damage to his neck. Instead of a fracture, the X-ray revealed a foreign object in the man's neck, which would later be identified as an old bullet. He had suffered multiple injuries during his time in the army, but he did not remember anything about taking a bullet to the neck.

Lerik, the land of longevity

Lerik: Lerik, a mountainous region in southern Azerbaijan, is famous for being home to an unusually high concentration of centenarians. Regions where people tend to live longer than average are known as "blue zones." However, there are places that are not officially categorized as blue zones. One such place is Lerik, a region in the Talysh Mountains of southern Azerbaijan, famous for its high number of centenarians and even the world's only Longevity Museum.

Lerik was home to over 500 centenarians, roughly one percent of its entire population. That number dwindled to about 100 out of around 63,000 inhabitants and to just over 20 known centenarians today. The sharp drop in the number of centenarians is attributed to modern life, pollution, processed foods and stress.

Don't destroy Mysore University's heritage

Sir,

The correspondent of the letter titled "Give Autonomy, Special Status to University of Mysore" in Star of Mysore dated Nov. 6 has cogently argued not to restrict the jurisdiction of University of Mysore (UoM) by limiting its control to the colleges of just Mysuru city and district. Instead, he has argued to make the UoM autonomous and give it a special status.

It must be remembered that UoM has a great heritage, tracing to the legacy of enlightened ruler Nalwadi Krishnaraja Wadiyar whom Mahatma Gandhi called Raja Rishi. The University was established in 1916 due to the efforts of Sir M. Visvesvaraya, engineer-statesman. The University jurisdiction did not limit to the then capital of Mysore only but extended to the whole of Mysore State.

By narrowing the jurisdiction of UoM to Mysuru city and district amounts to destroying its illustrious heritage. UoM had a galaxy of eminent personalities who contributed to spread its name and fame.

Even now most of the Indian and foreign students prefer to study in UoM and have published their research papers in national and international journals.

UoM has made a name in the technique of extension lectures published in Kannada for educating the masses. The University Teachers Association (UTA) has been of great help in carrying out this programme. This is something unique and Principal J.C. Rollo, who was the President of UTA, described this work as the 'Mysore Experiment' that helped spread adult education programmes and helped in many ways that resulted in the recent concepts of distance education, correspondence courses or the open university system.

It meant what Oxford had not done, Mysore was doing for nothing like that was to be seen anywhere else (Source: An Era of Enlightenment by Prof. B. Sheik Ali). Keeping this unique contribution at academic level, it is more than justified to spread its jurisdiction to Karnataka State.

Don't impose unfulfilled dreams on your children

Motivational speaker Dr. Gururaj Karajagi speaks on parental pressure on kids

Mysuru, Nov. 18 (GA&BCT)- Motivational speaker and Chairman of the Academy for Creative Teaching Dr. Gururaj Karajagi called upon parents and teachers not to impose their unfulfilled dreams on children. "Let them grow freely and do not exert pressure on them. Parents should not force their choices on their children. He said they should let them choose their career based on their interests.

The noted educationist and orator was speaking at the 'Nypunya Dasara Award Ceremony' organised by Nypunya School of Excellence at Bunts Convention Hall, Vijayanagar Third Stage recently.

"There are several gifts of life including unaddressed love, kindness, imbibing values, valuing one's culture and the belief in the concept of God, which could make life beautiful. It is the duty of elders to encourage children for their good deeds. Teach them values so that they become assets to society," he said.

Nypunya Dasara Awardees are seen with Chairman of Nypunya School of Excellence R. Raghu Kautilya, Motivational speaker and Chairman of the Academy for Creative Teaching Dr. Gururaj Karajagi and Founder of Swami Vivekananda Youth Movement Dr. R. Balasubramaniam.

Teaching values

Values are important in everyone's life and they could be imbibed among children not by teaching but by demonstrating. "If you want your children to be ethical, you become ethical first and the child follows you," he said. At the same time, one has to value one's culture. If the youth need to be strong, the culture of India should be deep-rooted and strong. Teach culture to children, Dr. Gururaj Karajagi said.

"If values are taught in a way they must be taught, children will never forget and remember them for the rest of their lives. Therefore, parents should understand that marks are not important rather teaching values to the children is important," he opined.

"Corruption in religious, economic, social, and educational fields is rampant. We come across many social evils in society. Children due to their exposure to mass media are turning into juvenile delinquents. Due to a lack of values, they adhere to whatever is shown on the TV and the internet, ruining their life," he regretted.

Parental - teacher pressure

"Usually, parents and teachers exert pressure on students to achieve academically good scores. The push for higher test scores and the demand that all students exhibit high proficiency in reading, maths, and science. This has resulted in stressed-out, violent and attention-deficit children who have had their childhoods stripped away from them.

In a word of advice to the teachers, Dr. Gururaj Karajagi said that teachers must have healthy attitudes and should possess rich values. "Teaching is all about positive attitude towards their job of imparting quality education. The teacher should act as a friend, philosopher and guide. A teacher is not only a source of information but is also a mentor and a guardian. For this, a teacher must respect the teaching profession and love the subjects and students. Students will seek inspiration from teachers who have high self-esteem," he noted.

India a resourceful nation

In his address, Dr. R. Balasubramaniam, Founder of Swami Vivekananda Youth Movement (SVYM), Mysuru, who is now a member of the Capacity Building Commission (CBC), Government of India, said that India is a very resourceful country and children are the next resources.

"Let the children be free and do not put pressure on them. We are happy that Indians are doing extremely well and many of them have headed and are at the helm of global organisations, companies and conglomerates. If we bring up our children without any pressure, in the next 15 years, organisations like Google and Amazon will be built in India," he said. Dr. Balasubramaniam asked students to develop the habit of reading and reading books from various academic disciplines. "This will introduce you to interesting fields of study and help you choose your area of interest," he added.

Chairman of Nypunya School of Excellence R. Raghu Kautilya and Principal Shilpa Prashanth were present.

Crocodile caught at Yele Thota

This croc is aged 45 years and does not have right leg; Residents suspect presence of more crocodiles

Mysuru, Nov. 18 (MTY) - The crocodile, which was playing hide and seek since a month at Yele Thota, next to Ramanuja Road 8th Cross, creating tension among the residents and public, was caught yesterday evening and it is suspected that there are more crocodiles in this place.

This crocodile is said to be aged about 45 years. It was spotted at Yele Thota frequently and the Forest Department had launched operations to capture the croc but in vain.

On Nov. 13, it had killed a calf and fearing that the crocodile may attack human beings, the Forest Department again launched the operation to capture the croc two days ago.

As sewage water was collected in the huge pit at Yele Thota, water pumps were used to pump out water into the drain, but sewage water was flowing into the pit continuously. The Forest Department authorities had written to the Mysuru City Corporation to dig a trench and empty the pit so that they could capture the crocodile.

From yesterday morning, the Forest Department staff and MCC team intensified their operation and had laid the nets in drains surrounding Yele Thota to capture the crocodile.

At about 4.30 pm, the crocodile was spotted among the bushes and when the team neared it, the croc immediately ventured into the drain and tried to escape but was caught in the nets laid inside the drain.

The team then wrapped the crocodile in the net and brought it out from the drain, blindfolded it with cloth, tied its legs and placed it in the Forest Department vehicle. The captured crocodile was released into Kabini backwaters last night.

Range Forest Officer (RFO) K. Surendra, Deputy RFOs Venkatachala and Sanjeev Patil, animal rescuer Pradeep, Snake Shivu and MCC Abhaya team members took part in the operation.

Corporator B.V. Manjunath was present at the spot during the crocodile capture operation.

Was the one caught the same that was spotted?

The crocodile that was caught yesterday does not have the front right leg, but the crocodile which was spotted a few days ago, has all four legs, claim the residents. This has raised doubts that the one that was spotted and the one which was caught yesterday is different. It is learnt that this croc was earlier spotted in Sewage Farm and attempts were also made to capture it but it had managed to escape in the drain. Now, it has been caught near Yele Thota. Suspecting that there are more crocodiles in the vicinity of Yele Thota, the public have urged the authorities concerned to trace and capture them also.

Brahmins Association lodges complaint against P. Mallesh

Mysuru, Nov. 18 (SBD& DM)- Accusing social activist P. Mallesh of making abusive and defamatory remarks against Brahmin community, the Mysuru City and District Brahmins Association has lodged a complaint against the activist at Kuvempunagar Police Station.

Alleging that Mallesh, in his address during 'Siddharamaiah-75' book release programme held at RamaGovinda Rangamandira in Ramakrishnanagar on Nov. 15, had made derogatory remarks against Brahmins and Brahmin community, the Association also charged him of caste abuse and using abusive language against 10 percent reservation quota for EWS (Economically Weaker Sections) from General category.

The Association further alleged that Mallesh had used defamatory language against Brahmins besides causing societal disharmony. As such the Association has lodged a complaint seeking registration of a case under Sections 153(a), 295 and 295(a) of IPC against Mallesh.

Speaking to presspersons after lodging the complaint, Association President D.T. Prakash said that a complaint has been lodged at Kuvempunagar Police Station and the Police have assured of registering an FIR in this regard on Friday.

Protest rally: Announcing that the Brahmin community will take out a massive procession in the city on Nov.21 in protest against Mallesh's remarks, Prakash said that several Mutt Seers have been approached for support.

Stating that Mallesh's apology sent from his home is not enough, he sought a public apology before the media.

Former MUDA Chairman H.V. Rajeev said that Mallesh has spoken of Brahmins very cheaply. Pointing out that a person should become more responsible as he/she ages, Rajeev said that Mallesh has used abusive language against Brahmins which shows his hatred towards Brahmins.

Asserting that the community has the strength to teach a lesson to such irresponsible and arrogant persons, he wondered what kind of a Socialist Mallesh was.

Strongly condemning Mallesh's remarks, he demanded that the activist be booked for caste abuse. The community would take the issue to its logical end, he added.

Vedic Scholar Bhanuprakash Sharma, City BJP President T.S. Srivatsa, Adarsha Sangha President G.R. Nagaraj, community leaders S. Bhashyam, Sudheendra, K.R. Satyanarayana, Rakesh Bhat, H.G. Giridhar, Jayasimha, Srinivas Prasad, Vijaykumar, Nagendra Babu, Yoganarasimha, Murali, Ranganath, Sheshagiri, Kadakola Jagadish, Jayaram, Mirle Panish, Ranganath and Om Srinivas, women community leaders Latha Mohan, Dr. Lakshmidevi, Sowbhagya Murthy and others were present along with the leaders while lodging a Police complaint.

Common entry gate to Karanji Lake and RMNH opens

Mysuru, Nov.18 (MTY&DM)- In yet another measure for the convenience of tourists and visitors, Sri Chamarajendra Zoological Gardens (Mysuru Zoo), threw open the common entry gate that connects Karanji Lake Nature Park coming under it, with the Regional Museum of Natural History (RMNH), this morning.

Speaking after launching the common entry gate for visitors, ZAK (Zoo Authority of Karnataka) Chairman M. Shivakumar said that the gate, which was set up over two decades ago, was temporarily closed following complaints that illegal and immoral activities were going on in the vicinity. But now this gate has been opened afresh after a facelift with all necessary measures in place for the benefit of tourists and visitors.

Pointing out that the common entry gate will help improve the number of visitors, Shivakumar said that this apart, pollution can be avoided due to common parking area to both the places. Besides, the common gate will save time and money for tourists, he said adding that this will also help in easing vehicle parking problems. He clarified that the entry fee to the Lake (Rs.30) remains unchanged.

Maintaining that the gate will also avoid visitors from travelling two to three kms to reach each of the two places, the ZAK Chairman said that a similar common gate that links Mysuru Zoo with Karanji Lake will also be thrown open to the visitors in a few months.

ZAK Member-Secretary B.P. Ravi, Mysuru Zoo Executive Director Ajit Kulkarni, Tiwari of RMNH and others were present.

RMNH is a museum with exhibits on plants, animals and Geology of Southern Region of India. Located in a corner on the banks of Karanji Lake, it is an excellent resource for getting familiar with local flora, fauna and the basics of Natural Sciences. It is an undertaking of Union Ministry of Environment and Forests and entry to the Museum is free. On the first day of the gate opening, students were allowed entry to the park and museum.

Kabini Phase II to be completed by Jan. 2023: MLA

The project is being implemented by the Karnataka Urban Water Supply and Drainage Board (KUWSDB) and this will meet the growing drinking water demands. We inspected the ongoing work on the tube settler (capable of purifying 22 MLD) and rapid sand filter at the water treatment plant. MUDA has decided to install a 1,200 HP capacity motor to increase the pumping capacity enabling the plant to pump 120 MLD into Mysuru city without any hassles. Once completed, water will be supplied to all parts of Krishnaraja Constituency," the MLA's statement read.

Over 70 percent of the work on the tube module has been completed and over 40 percent work of the rapid sand filter has been completed. Ayyappa Constructions is executing the project and the contractor has assured that the works will be completed by the end of December.

"All the works will be completed by January 2023. In fact, the work should have been completed by September 2021 but was delayed due to various reasons. Once the project is completed, 18 to 20 MLD of additional water will be supplied to areas coming under Krishnaraja Constituency and the additional water (40 MLD) will be supplied to MUDA to be diverted to meet the drinking water requirements of areas that are outside the MCC limits but come under MUDA," MLA Ramdas added.

Decommissioning borewells

Now that the Kabini Phase II project is becoming a reality, there is a plan to make Krishnaraja a borewell-free Constituency. There were over 584 borewells in the Constituency and 400 of them have been decommissioned and connected to parks. The remaining borewells will also be decommissioned in the due course. "As of now, many parts of K.R. are getting 20 MLD of borewell water. Once the Kabini Phase II is fully implemented, the dependency on borewells will cease to exist and the borewells will be decommissioned," Ramdas added.

MCC Commissioner Lakshmikantha Reddy said that the civic body has plans to eliminate drinking water supply through borewells in all Wards by January 2023. "We have already decommissioned about 400 borewells and 300 more will be disconnected in the coming months. We will retain around 300 borewells as a back-up in case of any emergency and to meet the water requirements of gardens and parks," he said.

The book I read in the US

The Maharaja and the Princely States of India

By Gouri Satya,
Sr. Journalist

Gouri Satya

Whenever I come to the US, I make it a point to visit the Sunnyvale Library in San Francisco. A beautifully designed coffee-table book drew my attention at the history aisle when I visited the Library this time. It was titled 'The Maharaja & the Princely States of India.'

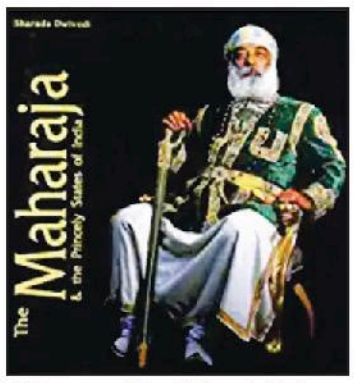
Richly illustrated with colour plates, it is authored by Sharada Dwivedi. It was published in the US twenty years ago when Srikanta Datta Narasimharaja Wadiyar was the head of the Mysore Wadiyar family. He also figures in this book among the twenty Maharajas. However, the description is limited to his ancestry, dishes made at festivals, his wedding and the Lalitha Mahal Palace, all in a few lines. The other rulers covered are Jodhpur, Jaipur, Bharatpur, Kotah, Kishengarh, Karauli, Bikaner, Jaisalmer, Udaipur (Mewar), Patiala, Baroda, Gwalior, Jammu and Kashmir, and a few others in brief.

Sharada Dwivedi was a well-known historian, researcher and author. She lived in Mumbai and died on Feb. 6, 2012.

The blurb on the flap says that this book 'shows the hidden world of princely India in all its glory with photographs of former rulers and their living descendants, many of whom are as revered today as they were in the past, despite the modest lifestyle they have been obliged to adopt. Tourists can become princes for a night or two by staying in one of the several expensive hotels that have been made out of former Palaces. The book will delight all those interested in the history of the subcontinent, its pageantry, jewellery and traditions.' This sums up the content and objective of the book.

In defence of the Princes

The foreword is written by Arvind Singh Mewar of the Udaipur Palace. It is naturally in defence of the Princes who lost their princely status and kingdom overnight. He laments that history has done injustice to them and has failed to give importance to their sacrifice and their voluntary and willing absorption of their States into the Union of India, though it was 'one of the most astonishing transitions in world history.' Similarly, it has also failed to highlight or even acknowledge the significant and major role of many of the former rulers in the struggle for India's independence. 'Such is the weakness of democracy,' he laments.



Title: 'The Maharaja & the Princely States of India'
Author: Sharada Dwivedi
Year: 2002
Pages: 156
Price: 224 dollars
Publisher: The Vendome Press, New Toekm USA

He praises the Maharajas for adapting to change in an orderly manner, instilling in their people a feeling of pride that democracy was not something princely families would fight against, but something they would welcome for the good of their people and for the continued unification of their great country for which they had over centuries laid down their lives to maintain a unified country against foreign occupation.

Arvind Singh also refers to the 'selfless sacrifice' made by the Princes when the special status guaranteed under the Indian States in 1947 to them was revoked by amending the relevant Article. He describes it as 'yet another betrayal by the government in power in 1971.' The Princes, however, declined to translate into protest or into dangerous resistance. 'These significant facts have been largely underplayed and deliberately suppressed,' he says.

The Maharajas

There were over 560 rulers in the undivided India at that time and were called variously. They varied in size and wealth. Some States had budgets comprising millions of rupees while others had merely a few hundred. The Residents or Agents appointed by the British government kept an eagle eye on the goings on within each State. The States were divided into three main categories — 118 Salute States, 117 Non-Salute States, while the third included 327 hereditary landowners, known as jagirdars, thakurs and talukdars. Of the 118 States, only five rulers were accorded gun salutes ranging from 21 down to 19, 17, `15, `13, 11 and nine. They included Mysore, besides Hyderabad, Baroda, Gwalior and Jammu & Kashmir.

The rulers maintained close contact with the people and spent several hours listening to their complaints and allegations. They toured their territories with no bodyguards, barricades, pilot cars or outriders. There were no security arrangements 'as are evident with the politicians in the India of today.' Of course, there were exceptions. While some Maharajas squandered away the entire assets and revenues of their States, others left the entire administration to their Dewan and their Council of Ministers. However, there were several model States ruled by enlightened rulers like Mysore, Baroda, Travancore, Hyderabad, Indore, Gwalior, Bikaner and even smaller States like Aundh, Sawantwadi and Gondal.

Indian rulers had amassed enviable collections of jewellery. The most celebrated bejewelled artifact ever produced in India was the Peacock Throne, pillaged from Delhi by Nadir Shah of Persia. The most famed jewel in the world, the Kohinoor diamond, adorns the British Queen. There were innumerable other marvels, including the Pitt, Orlov and Hope diamonds, which left Indian shores to dazzle the Western world. The most collection in recent times was that of the 'slovenly, eccentric, but brilliant' Osman Ali Pasha, the last Nizam of Hyderabad. He owned the famous 162-carat uncut Jacob Diamond, mounted on a gold base and used as a paperweight. He also had a set of ten flawless square emeralds, each the size of a small egg. His wealth in gold alone was once calculated at about thirty million pounds and jewels of the same value. He had mountains of gold and silver in an underground cellar. They were mostly amassed through gifts he received as a Nazar at his durbars. When the Government of India asked for a loan, gold sovereigns and silver bars were brought from Hyderabad to Bombay by a special train in which the royal treasure filled two railway wagons!

Amongst other rulers who owned magnificent jewellery were the Maharajas of Jaipur, Gwalior, Kashmir, Baroda, Indore, Patiala and Jodhpur. Significantly, Mysore does not figure among them.

Some Maharajas had their eccentricities and led a lavish life. The Nawab of Junagadh, for example, adorned his pet dogs. He kept his canines in the lap of luxury and celebrated their birthdays and weddings in grand style! The late Nawab Hamid Ali Khan of Rampur was said to have had over three hundred cooks in his employ, each specialising in preparing a particular type of dish.

The independence of India in 1947 saw the beginning of the end of their princely life. Some Maharajas, however, wisely provided for alternate means of sustenance like setting up private trusts for their employees and institutions they had established, converting their Palaces into hotels, contesting elections and becoming politicians or joining diplomatic services. Their enchanted world has, however, ended altogether and relegated to the pages of history.

Yet it should be noted that their contribution to posterity has vastly enriched the culture and development of the country. It is in evidence in the shape of dams and canals, educational institutions and libraries, art galleries and museums, architecture, wildlife sanctuaries and zoological parks; in classical music and dance and in exotic cuisine; on the playing field, in splendid Palaces and Palace hotels where the discerning visitor can still savour the graciousness of times past.

WORD OF THE DAY

Doughty

Pronunciation: DOW-tee.
Meaning: Doughty means "brave, strong, and determined."
Origin: There's no doubt that doughty has persevered in the English language—it's traceable all the way back to the Old English word dohtig—but how to pronounce it? One might assume that doughty should be pronounced \DAW-tee\, paralleling similarly spelled words like bought and sought, or perhaps with a long o, as in dough. But the vowel sound in doughty is the same as in doubt, and in fact, over the centuries, doughty's spelling was sometimes confused with that of the now obsolete word doubty ("full of doubt"), which could be the reason we have the pronunciation we use today. The homophonous dowdy ("having a dull or uninteresting appearance") can also be a source of confusion; an easy way to remember the difference is that you can't spell doughty without the letters in tough ("physically and emotionally strong").
Example: "[Rafael] Nadal was forced into five gruelling sets by Denis Shapovalov, but the 20-time Grand Slam champion ultimately showed the greater desire to outlast his doughty opponent and sealed his place in his 36th major semi-final in four hours and 10 minutes." — Dan Quarrell

THE ODD WORD

Deasil

Sunwise motion.

PHRASE OF THE DAY

A dark horse

Meaning: A dark horse is someone, who was previously little known, emerges to prominence in a competition.
Origin: This was originally horse racing parlance. A dark horse was one that little was known about and so and was difficult to place odds on. The figurative use later spread to other fields and has come to apply to anyone who comes under scrutiny but is previously little known. Benjamin Disraeli provides the earliest known reference to the phrase in The Young Duke, 1831: "A dark horse, which had never been thought of ... rushed past the grand stand in sweeping triumph." The figurative use seems first to have been taken up when referring to the candidates for academic preferment: The Saturday Review, 1860 - "A Headship ... often given by the College conclaves to a man who has judiciously kept himself dark." Sketches from Cambridge, 1865 - "Every now and then a dark horse is heard of, who is supposed to have done wonders at some obscure small college."
